

MEAT & MALT

THE IDEAL TONIC AND RECONSTRUCTIVE
There's Life and Strength in Every Drop.
A scientific combination of the essential constituents of PRIME BEEF and PURE OLD MALT.

Louisville, Ky., January 1, 1904.
MEAT & MALT CO., Louisville, Ky.
Gentlemen: Having examined your Meat & Malt preparation, and being thoroughly acquainted with its composition and mode of manufacture, I can state that it is an efficient nerve and blood tonic. It invigorates the appetite and invigorates digestion, and is especially beneficial in nervous prostration and debility. Yours truly,
L. D. KASTENBINE, M. D.,

LOW ONE-WAY SETTLERS' RATES TO THE NORTHWEST AND CALIFORNIA.

From September 15 until November 30, 1903, the Burlington makes very low one-way colonist rates to California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana. The reduction is from 25 to 40 per cent. from the regular rates.

THE WAY TO GO.
The Burlington, with its strong main lines and free chair cars, best reaches the West and Northwest via Denver, Billings or St. Paul. "The Burlington-Northern Pacific Express" is the great daily through train with chair cars and tourist sleepers via Billings, Montana, to Puget Sound and intermediate points.

TO CALIFORNIA.
The Burlington's weekly personally conducted California excursions in through tourist sleepers are just the thing for coast tourists and settlers. The route is Denver, scenic Colorado and Salt Lake.

HOMESEEKER'S EXCURSIONS.
These are run the first and third Tuesday of each month at approximately half rates for the round trip. It will be a pleasure for us to give you an accurate and informative reply to any inquiries.

MARKETS OF MEXICO

Little Shops That Supply All the Wants of the People.

They Are to the Mexican What Our Department Stores Are to Us—An Interesting Place for Foreigners to Visit.

When a Mexican wishes a blanket for his bed, a zerape for his shoulders, a piece of meat or a few beans for his dinner, a donkey cart or a fighting cock, he wends his way to the market. This collection of merchandise is to the native Mexican what the department store is to our city shopper. Here is found the rank and file of men and things; on every side are booths or stands holding a motley array of wares, or maybe only a cloth is spread upon the ground and the stock in trade set bravely forth to catch the buyer's eye.

Each stand is independent and seems to be entirely a family affair, large and small will lend a helping hand. The babies and the dogs lie under the counter, while a languid trade is piled above.

In some of the cities the market place is a showy pavilion with a glass roof and tiled floor, but the average marketman crouches under a huge palm-leaf umbrella or has a strip of sailcloth stretched over his head.

Not a very enterprising vocation, one might think, but here is the millennium of content, no eager vender will solicit your trade. If you care to buy, it is well; if not, "Oh, manana, there is another day."

Never have you seen such picturesque arrangement of common things. Spread upon a dingy cloth is a peck or so of black beans, piled in little rows, crosses or circles. Little mounds of native potatoes, about as large as a walnut and retailing for a penny apiece.

The peas are always shelled and the green beans broken in small pieces. Sweet potatoes and onions are cut in halves or quarters to accommodate a slender purse, while melons and squash are sold by the slice and the seeds are roasted.

The dulce or sweetmeat stand has the liveliest trade, candied orange peel, cactus leaf and strips of squash, little sweet cakes and all kinds of nut meats, soaked in sugar.

The chickens and turkeys are tied by the leg to a post and stroll about at the end of a short rope, while sad-eyed burros stand huddled together in some shady corner. A red flag betrays the meat market, a half a beef or a young kid hangs from the hook and as a customer purchases a pound or so, the butcher seizes a knife and chops off a piece, careless of choice or cut.

Squatting on the ground you will see, every few rods, an old man or woman with an enormous basket; this is the bread vender, for everyone in Mexico eats the large crusty rolls that are bought once a day or once a week and served at every meal.

CORNER OF A MEXICAN MARKET.

The "Thieves Market" is found in most of the large cities. Here is brought any and everything that may be bartered, and there is nothing too mean for peon commerce. Broken bottles, old locks, bunches of rusty keys, half-worn sandals, battered pans and cracked jars, old brass knockers, worth a pretty penny, but sold for a song; all thrown in together and forming a lure for the curiosity seeker as well as for the indigent customer.

A nod, a shrug, a soft harangue in the Spanish tongue, clucking of chickens and cackling of geese, a child's cry and a low lullaby, golden sunlight flooding the white canopies, gay scarlet blankets and coquettish mantillas, the sights, the sounds, the smells—yes, above all the smells—this is the Mexican market.

ANNA H. CLARK.

Questions.
"Leisure, Effigy and Atoms—how far apart are they?"
"Eff! Far apart—what are you talking about?"
"Why, no, Leisure, where married people repeat, you know; Effigy, the town where they are always hanging somebody; and Atoms, the place that things are blown to!"—Puck.

VALUE OF THE EGG

Drop—Year in, Year Out, Beats Production of Precious Metals.

Russia is the largest seller of eggs in the world. She sells to foreign countries 150,000,000 dozen eggs nearly every year. In 1896 she sent abroad 1,475,000,000 eggs; in 1897 1,737,000,000, and in 1898, 1,831,000,000. Her sales are all the time increasing.

China is supposed to be the largest producer of eggs in the world. There is no such thing as statistics of poultry products in China, but there are over 400,000,000 persons in the Empire who are very fond of eggs; it takes a good many eggs to supply them. The humblest farmer has hens in plenty, and they do their best to supply the demand. There is little doubt that China takes the cake as an egg producer. Her entire supply is usually consumed at home, though she sometimes manages to spare a few for Japanese consumers.

Great Britain is the largest buyer of foreign eggs in the world. Of course, no English breakfast table is complete without eggs as a complement to its toast and marmalade. Great Britain buys every year an average of 1,500,000,000 eggs from about twenty countries, and this is only 40 per cent. of the consumption. British hens manage to produce three-fifths of the eggs that the home market demands. In 1901 Russia sold to England 536,053,000 eggs and the next largest sellers were Belgium, Denmark, Germany, France, Egypt and Morocco. Great Britain spent $26,745,194 in the purchase of eggs in 1901.

Our entire export of eggs of 1902 was only 2,717,990 dozen, valued at $528,679, which cuts a small figure in comparison with Russia's total. But our hens are very industrious, and it is only the enormous home demand that keeps our exports at such a low figure.

In 1896 there were 233,598,005 chickens in this country, and they produced 1,263,818,144 dozen eggs; and the fact that we consumed 90 per cent. of them shows that we are a nation of egg-eaters. It is enough to make any hen dizzy to think that a train of ordinary refrigerator cars containing our entire egg crop of that year would have extended from Chicago to Washington, with several miles of cars to stretch along the track toward Baltimore.

In 1901 the receipts and consumption of eggs in New York city were 2,372,000 crates of 30 dozen each. Chicago has even a larger per capita consumption, or an average of 1,581,545 crates a year. Truly, the egg industry is a great business; and when we consider it in connection with the broiler, spring chickens, tough and tender, roosters we consume, the poultry interests assume prodigious proportions.

The total value of the poultry and eggs we produced in the last census year was $281,178,247. The industry was worth more than all the cattle and hogs we slaughtered. It was worth more than the wheat crop of twenty-eight states and territories; and the value of our eggs alone was higher than that of the combined gold and silver product of the United States in any year since 1850, except in 1890, when the precious metals exceeded the eggs by $9,418,125.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

It is not possible for the proprietors to publish more than a very few of the numerous letters received in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and telling of its remarkable cures. They come from people in every walk of life and from every state in the Union. The following from Mr. T. W. Greathouse, of Prattburg, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after seven years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by C. K. Wyly, druggist.
